CITY OF DUBLIN.

(Dublin Weekly Freeman, Sept. 24.)

At a meeting of the Town Tenants' League executive in Dublin, encouraging reports were presented. A resolution was passed strongly protesting against the proposed introduction of the "cash on delivery" system into Ireland. One speaker remarked that the system would make every postman in Ireland a traveler for English goods.

The Unionists objected to the votes of a number of priests, professors of Cloniffe and All-Hallows colleges and St. Patrick's training college, and members of the Vincentian community at Philshorough. The revising barrister at Drumcondra, after hearing the evidence, reserved judgment.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Dublin Trades Council on Monday a resolution was adopted with reference to the publication of the works of Irish authors in London instead of in Dublin, and suggesting the holding of a conference on the subject, convened by the council, between publishers, authors and others concerned.

On Tuesday in the Northern Police court, in the hearing of a charge against a float driver of knocking down a man by negligent driving, the presiding magistrate, Mr. Mahoney, remarked that in Lower Leeson street every morning, while certain fashionable people were motoring into Dublin from the suburbs, there was no safety for life or limb.

On Thursday, at the revision of the voters' lists for the borough of Dublin, the allegation regarding the tampering with the official objections by the town clerk to certain voters was investigated. The revising barrister said it was clear that the town clerk or the printers had nothing to do with the matter; who did it was still a mystery.

Poole's Myriorama company were fined at the police courts on Wednesday for allowing the passage to the Round Room Rotunda, where their performances are taking place, to become overcrowded. It was mentioned that all the places of amusement in the city were doing their best to meet the views of the corporation in the matter of safe exits for the audience.

The Irish Cattle Traders & Stock Owners' association at its weekly meeting dealt with various complaints against the carrying companies. A concession from the Midland & Great Western Railway company was announced. It was decided to take action against the refusal by the railway and shipping companies to give rebates on through bookings of cattle via Dublin.

ALL AROUND IRELAND.

A hundred mill hands are emigrating from Belfast to Canada.

A branch of the Town Tenants' association has been established in Claremorris.

A man named McClelland was murdered near Mohill, County Leitrim, on Wednesday night.

Notice has been served of an application for an injunction to restrain those who are claiming sporting rights on the Clanciarde estate.

The Belfast Trades Council have passed a resolution calling on the corporation to get all the tramcars required for the electrical service built in the city.

In a report of the Bartleby great horse fair, it is suggested that there is a tendency to decentralization, and the consequent decline of the great horse fairs of the country.

Michael McNally, a young bricklayer residing at Athlone, was remanded on Monday on a charge of attempted murder of his wife and child.

An increase of emigration is reported from the East Kerry districts, due, it is supposed, to the cheap Transatlantic fares now offered by the various Atlantic carrying companies.

At a Nationalist meeting, under the auspices of the Cordell U. L. L. in the East Kerry district, held on Sunday, the resolutions recently adopted by the national directory were unanimously endorsed.

On Tuesday an enthusiastic meeting of the Belfast United Irish League registration committee was held at which important steps were taken to further the revision of the west division.

On Wednesday in Drogheda the second annual agricultural and industrial show was successfully opened. There were close on 1,400 entries, against 700 last year.

An important meeting to deal with the education question will be held in Ballaghadereen early in October. The bishop will preside, and the meeting will be addressed by Mr. John Dillon, M. P.

Before his honor Judge Adams objections were made by Lord Dunraven's employees to a large number of Nationalist voters, but the objector said he had acted in ignorance, and the votes were allowed.

The Skerua and Dromore branch of the United Irish League, in the County Sligo, unanimously adopted the resolutions of the national directory to pledged full support to the Irish party.

The members of the Belfast Tramways committee, at a meeting on Thursday, discussed the proposed extension of the system, and decided to have the work carried out, not by the corporation, but by a contractor.

The third annual show of Wexford Agricultural society was most successful on Wednesday, there being fine weather, a large attendance and good classes, the exhibits being up to a very good standard.

An inquest was held at Sween on Tuesday relative to the death of a game keeper named John Sheehan. The medical evidence showed that the cause of death was apoplexy, and the jury found to that effect.

Over one thousand workers in Messrs. Harland & Wolff's shipbuilding yards in Belfast have been paid off. The reason is not officially stated. Hundreds of workmen have also been discharged from Messrs. Workman, Clark & Co.'s concern.

The action of the police authorities in proclaiming the public funeral proposed to be given to an old Fenian and evicted tenant who died in Swinford workhouse recently was condemned at a special meeting of the Tubbercurry district council on Monday.

The congregation at St. Peter's church, Warrenpoint, on Sunday last subscribed £125 in response to an appeal by the bishop of Dromore for funds for the structural alterations and improvements in progress in the cathedral, Newry.

At the quarterly meeting of the South Longford executive U. L. L., Mr. Farrell, M. P., presiding, the resolutions of the national directory were unanimously adopted, and a vote of thanks passed to Mr. Farrell for his services in parliament.

At the revision sessions for the Rathkeale district of Limerick county, Judge Adams heard objections to claims for votes, the objector in some cases from the Green district being Lord Dunraven, who represents the division in the county council.

On Tuesday the County Meath Agricultural society held their cattle, sheep, flower and fruit show in Navan. The entries were large, and the exposition on the whole was a pronounced success. In the jumping competition, one of the riders was thrown and was unconscious for about fifteen minutes.

Mr. John Keefe, a seaman, has been awarded £500 damages in the English superior courts for personal injuries sustained by him as mate of the S.S. Speedy of Newry, whilst that vessel was undergoing repairs on the slip of the defendants in the action, Messrs. Day, Summers & Co., Southampton.

A bailiff named Robert Gillespie, employed by Major Dopping Hepenstall, Derryvaughan, County Longford, was charged at the Granard petty sessions on Wednesday with presenting a revolver at some young man of the district, and was returned for trial.

Details have come from Queenstown of the terrible experiences of the sailing ship Inverloch, which arrived at that port yesterday from Melbourne, after encountering weather of the worst and roughest description during the entire voyage.

At the second day of the Carrage September meeting on Wednesday Almanac were the Carrage plate, Shanganagh Park the Nursery stake, the Lass the Turf club cup, beating St. Brendan, which thus suffered defeat for the first time on Irish soil; Bara the Eastern stakes, Consilio the Harvest plate, and Claret Lass the Stewards' plate.

At the Carrage meeting on Thursday, Lady of the House won the September stakes, Clonmel His Majesty's plate, Graybeard the Sprinters' plate, Bushy Bell the Dudley cup, Woolahra colt the Railway stakes, Peterfield the Flying plate, and Rafragh the Corinthian plate.

The agricultural department was the subject of considerable criticism at the meeting of the Westmeath county committee, the chief complaint being that the department had failed to supply a qualified instructor, though the necessary funds were voted by the county council.

The South Tipperary executive of the U. L. L. at a meeting held in Cahir on Wednesday, adopted resolutions declaring confidence in Mr. Redmond's chairmanship of the Irish party, condemning the government for broken pledges in parliament and approving of the action of Cork City in re-electing Mr. W. O'Brien, M. P. Mr. J. Cullinan, member for the division, addressed the meeting.

On Tuesday the golden jubilee of the Rev. Mother Ignatius (O'Connell), Presentation convent, Castlelindis, was celebrated with every manifestation of rejoicing. Priests attended from various parts of the diocese, while the people of the parish flocked in hundreds to participate in the ceremonies, and tender their congratulations to one who holds a warm place in their affections.

A Cork correspondent writes: "In the course of a very interesting lecture last Thursday at the Assembly rooms, Mr. Gratton Flood made the suggestion that in Cork, at least, the approaching centenary of the author of the 'Bells of Shannon' ought to be observed in a befitting way. From Mr. Flood's researches it appears that Fr. Frank Mahony, or 'Father Prout', was born in the city of Cork on Dec. 31, 1804, and therefore, a suitable commemoration ought to take place to keep green the memory of a most remarkable literary priest."

On Thursday an exhibition of fat cattle, roots, poultry, eggs and butter was held in the park grounds, Longford. There was also a butter making competition. A good deal of interest attached to the day's proceedings. The poultry, egg and butter departments were entrusted to committees of ladies representing the following centers: Killashee, Ballinalee, Granard, Edgeworthstown, Kesh, Ballynabon, Longford, Drumlish. There was a large gathering, representing every portion of the county. A military band from Mullingar attended, and discoursed a selection of music during the afternoon. The competition was keen in every section, and the exhibits were admitted to have reached a very high degree of excellence.

Under the auspices of the United Irish League, a meeting was held on Sunday at Robeen, a populous district about six miles from here, and was attended by representative men from Claremorris, Ballinrobe and the adjoining districts. The object was to celebrate the victory of the united agitation against landlordism. Some ten years ago a poor, struggling farmer, named Reilly, was evicted from his holding by Mr. T. F. Rutledge, sub-sheriff of the county, for non-payment of rent, and a man named McGurran placed in possession. Reilly still set up his claim to the old place and for interfering with McGurran was, with his son, prosecuted and imprisoned. His offers to the landlord in settlement of the debt were refused, and it was only after Mr. William O'Brien's letter to Mr. T. Heraghty, J. P., chairman of the Ballinrobe district council, on the subject, that Mr. Rutledge agreed to have the evicted tenant reinstated. Reilly owed four years' rent, and the terms of his reinstatement were that he paid three years' rent with costs. This he did, and is now back again.

GREAT CEREMONY IN KILLARNEY.

On Sunday the consecration the Most Rev. Dr. Mangan as bishop of Ardara and Achadoe took place in the cathedral, Killarney, in the presence of the archbishop of Cashel and nearly all the other members of the hierarchy of the Munster province. A great gathering of clergy, not only from the diocese, but from all parts of Ireland, and an immense concourse of people from all parts of the Kingdom of Kerry. The great assemblage of people was certainly a most remarkable tribute to the popularity of the new prelate. They came from all parts of the country—from most remote places—to join in the popular rejoicings that one who had been so much esteemed in every place in which he served as parish priest had been appointed to be chief pastor of St. Brendan's see. The special train run from Listowel, the bishop's native parish, brought a great crowd, with a brass band. Another special train brought large numbers from Kenmare and Sneem, the two last parishes in which the bishop officiated, and even distant Glengarriff, where he formerly acted in a similar capacity, sent a large deputation. A special train from Calverton brought crowds from the southwest of the kingdom, while the Cork special served the purpose of those anxious to be present from the Millstreet side of the diocese.

Two of the parliamentary representatives of the county, Mr. Flavin and Mr. Murphy, were present. In addition to being a grand religious function, the people made a splendid national demonstration. It would be impossible to exaggerate the delight with which the multitude hailed the patriotic speech which the bishop made direct to the assembled people themselves, even before their representatives presented him with addresses which, by the way, numbered thirty.

It is a tradition in Kerry that no bishop has been consecrated in this diocese on a wet day. Such a tradition is all the more remarkable, because the reputation of Kerry, and Killarney especially, in the matter of rainfall, has almost passed into a proverb. Today the tradition justified itself. The morning opened with a Killarney mist, as distinct from a Killarney downpour, but the clouds cleared off, and in the afternoon, when the addresses were presented in the open air at the palace, there was glorious summerlike weather. The splendid cathedral was thronged to the doors during the consecration ceremony, and the eloquent sermon preached by the Very Rev. Dr. Murphy, late president of the Blackrock college, and at present president of Prior Park college, Bath, was followed with rapt attention.

When we are satisfied with an imitation of anything we are apt to have a certain amount of imitation creep into our characters.—Eugenie Chirich.

A DELUGE IN DONEGAL.

The most extraordinary rainfall within living memory occurred in the district of county Donegal between Glenties and Ardara on Friday afternoon. Friday was a sunny day up until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the sky suddenly darkened and a deluge of rain resembling a waterspout burst over the district, and continued with unabated intensity for an hour and a half, when it ceased as suddenly as it had begun, and the sun again shone forth. Although the downpour lasted for only an hour and a half, it did its intensity can be judged from the fact that in that time practically the whole tract of country was inundated, and few residents escaped serious losses. At one place the river had risen within a couple of hours to a height of fully four feet, a height which had never been attained in the memory of any of the inhabitants. At many points along its course the river burst its banks and spread itself over the surrounding farms. It was then impossible to discover the course of the river, as the countryside resembled a white and troubled lake. Not only was almost every stacked crop in the valley carried away, but hundreds of sheep which had been grazing on the mountains and valleys were carried on their feet and drowned. Near the sea the sad spectacle was presented of vast quantities of hay and other crops floating on the river or strewn about the banks, with here and there the carcass of a drowned sheep or pig. The residents in the village of Glenties also suffered great inconvenience and damage through flooding. In many cases the ground floors of shops were flooded, and large quantities of stores rendered useless by the water. In some of the low-lying houses the occupants were obliged to take refuge in the upper story. In Ardara much the same story is told of the destruction caused by this remarkable deluge. The Donegal railway line also came in for some damage. The river undermined some of the bridges, upon which attention is being bestowed. At other places some half-buried houses have been washed away.—Dublin Freeman, Sept. 24.

ACT OF VANDALISM.

Much indignation is felt in Limerick at an act of war office vandalism. The castle is a very proud of its castle, which has come down nearly intact from the days of that prince, which forms a very rich object in city views, which played a great part in the siege, and within a bowshot of which is the stone on which was signed "the treaty broken ere the ink was dry." A fine feature of the castle is the round tower, the round tower over the river. This building was, up to a few months ago, crowned by a most graceful and picturesque conical roof, such as that of Reginald's tower in Waterford. The castle is now occupied as a barrack, and the ancient roof of the tower has been dismantled by vandals a few months ago. The war office contemplated the roof—which no one could complain of—but replaced it by a hideous almost flat roof, which makes an eyesore of the ancient edifice. It is rumored, we know not on what authority, that the war office contemplates entirely taking down the castle and building new barracks on its site. If this is done, thereon will disappear the last important relic of the fortifications behind which Sarafeld fought and before which William was defeated.—Dublin Freeman.

Tom—So Miss Turner refused you, eh? Dick—Yes, indeed; two of them. Tom—What were they? Jack—Myself and another fellow.

Catholic Advertising.

Catholics who desire to contribute their full share to the success of Catholic Journalism should patronize those business firms whose advertisements appear in their Catholic paper. And they should make it known that this is one of the considerations of their trading. It may be put down as a rule that the houses which do not advertise in your Catholic paper are unfriendly to it.

The fact that a firm does advertise in your Catholic paper is a guarantee that it considers your patronage worth the having. It is a guarantee that it believes you a desirable customer and is willing to patronize your paper to secure you. Such people are worthy of your patronage and you should always scan your paper to see who they are. If you have money to spend they are the people who should have the first call on it.
